THE CORONATION OF NAPOLEON WITH THE IRON CROWN OF LOMBARDY. BY AUGUSTUS SNODGRASS.

THERE is a scene of pomp to-day, And Milan's streets with life are gav, Her banners proudly wave; Joy! Joy! Italia's Kings are there, To see a Nation smiling wear The fetters of a slave!

Bring forth the bauble! Lo! the crown, Which from a thousand years came down, Of glory, hate and strife, By purpled monarchs gaily worn, Yet now from dust and darkness borne,

It seals a Nation's life! Roll back the clouds which veil the Past; Who wore that regal bauble last? The royal Charlemagne

But Gaul's proud monarchs lost the prize, When thou, O Milan, didst arise, And break thine iron chain ! A thousand years have onward rolled,

And each a changing tale has told Of Freedom or of chains; The fire of Youth-the strength of Man, And Age's feeble dullness ran Along thy throbbing veins!

Manhood's strong nobleness was thine When gathering from the rushing Rhine, The battling Germans sped To trample in thine ancient halls; But conquered from thy bristling walls, Proud Barbarossa fled!

Now Age hath quelled the lightning flame Which once gave terror to thy name; And lost in pomp and lust, Thy people press with shout and song, A coward, slavish, senseless throng,

But who more fit to bind thy chains Than he who gained on bloody plains, The battle and the strife : Saw Kings their purple garments tear, And Empires crushed in loud despair Implore the boon of Life?

To worship royal dust.

Aye-who more fit than he whose word Dim priests and monks by terror stirred, To count their holy beads? Who trod the desert's burning sands, And conq'ring laid his iron hands On Egypt's Pyramids?

Then yield to him the gorgeous prize, And fill with crazy glee the skies, Your banners gay fling out! For sure, ye life a moment save By kneeling thus-a fettered slave !-Then sing, and dance, and shout!

The trumpets sound-the drums beat loud-Shouts wild the weak ignoble crowd ;-The tasseled gentry smile! While full and deep the Organ's tone Rolls like a weeping Spirit's moan Along the holy aisle! Bring forth the royal diadem!

The victor grasps the ancient gem, And bears it to his brow; "'T is Heaven that gives-who takes beware !" Thus cries the monarch, and who dare Approach the bauble now?

But Heaven that gave, the bauble tore, While Thine the fallen victor bore Crownless into his grave; But thou, Italia, art as then, Though once the nurse of noble men, A coward and a slave! Norwich, N. Y.

MESSES. SANDS:

Gentlemen—Parental feelings induce us to make the following statement of facts in relation to the important cure of our little daughter, wholly effected by the use of Sands's Sarsaparilla. For nearly three years she was afflicted with a most inveterate eruption on the body, which at times was so bad, connected with internal disease, that we despaired of her life. The complaint commenced in the roots of the hair, and gradually spread until the whole head was enveloped, and then it attacked the ears, and ran down the neck, and continuing to increase until it covered the most of the body. It commenced with a small pimple or pustile, from which water at first discharged; this produced great itching and burning; then matter or pus formed, the skin cracked ing and burning; theo matter or pus formed, the skin cracked and bled, and the pus discharged freely. The sufferings of the child were so great as almost wholly to prevent natural rest, and the odor from the discharges so offensive as to make rest, this was a second of the case required. The disease was called Scald head and general Salt Rheum. We tried various remedies, with little benefit, and considered her case almost beyond the reach of medicine, but from the known virtue of your Sarsaparilla, we were in but from the known virtue of your Sarsaparitia, we were induced to give it a trial.

Before the first bottle was all used, we perceived an improvement in the appearance of the eruption; but the change was so rapid for the better, that we could accreely give oredence to the evidence of our own eyes. We continued in use for a few weeks, and the result is a perfect cure. To all Parents we would say:—If you have children suffering with any disease of the skin, use Sands's Sarsaparilla.
